Industry Leader Dead Of Stroke Early Thursday

Robert Ingersoll Ingalls, chairman of the board of Ingalls Iron Works, and one of the nation's leading industrialists, died at 4:15 a. m. Thursday at a Birmingham hospital.

Born Oct. 15, 1882, he was 69 years old at the time of his death.

Funeral services will be conducted at 4 p. m. today from First Presbyterian church Birmingham.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Ellen Gregg Ingalls; one son, R. I. Jr.; two grand children, Elizabeth Ridgley and Barbara Gregg Ingalls; two sisters, Mrs. Grace I. Swan, Tom's River, N. J. and Mrs. Blanche I. Curl, Oakland, Calif., and one brother, Charles Bristol, Russell's Point, Okla.

Pallbearers will be W. R. Guest, M. F. Pixton, D. W. Starnes, and Monroe B. Lanier, R. C. Palmer, K. H. Gayle, Jr. and Ross Anderson, all officials of the Ingalls company or its affiliates.

Was Native of Ohio

Ingalls was born in Huntsville, O., and attended Ohio Northern University.

As a young man of 28, he bought a small fabricating plant in Birmingham in 1910 and made it into the Ingalls Iron Works Co., one of the nation's largest such concerns.

In 1938, he formed the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp., utilizing his Birmingham plants for some of the preliminary preparation of steel for the shipyard.

During the war years the Pascagoula yard employed more than 10,000 persons. It remained in operation after World War II, when it was the only Gulf shipyard engaged in construction of new ships.

Ingalls Shipbuilding also operates an inland shipyard at Decatur, Ala., on the Tennessee River. Birmingham Tank Co., another subsidiary, manufactures steel fabricated tanks. Another subsidiary is the Steel Construction Co., which handles major construction jobs on steel fabricated at the Ingalls plants.

Donated Large Sums

The Ingalls Foundation, incorporated in 1943, was given large sums by Ingalls to be used in

There's a lot of bustle and excitement today at Fort Sill, Okla., as officers and men of Battery B, 631st Field Artillery Battalion, prepare to entrain for Camp Kilmer, N. J.

Battery B is scheduled to leave Fort Sill Sunday and sail for Germany within a few days after arriving at Camp Kilmer.

Their feverish preparation has been under way for several weeks. Guest of Gen. Wilson

This reporter, accompanied by Edward A. Khayat, 520 Beardslee St., Moss Point, visited Fort Sill Saturday and Sunday as guests of Maj. Gen. William P. Wilson, Mississippi adjutant general and commander of the state National Guard.

We were members of a party of 16 which, besides army officers, was composed of the flower of southern Mississippi baby-kissers, and the elite of that class of eccentrics who couldn't earn a living anywhere except in the newspaper business.

We took off from Kessler at 7 a. m., made short stops at Hattiesburg and Jackson and arrived at Fort Sill at 11:50 a. m.

This reporter spent the morning in casual conversation and pleasant reverie after recovering from the emotional upheaval in his ex-pc bosom caused by the spectacle of a major general scurrying back and forth in the aisle, shirttail flying, passing out soft drinks.

We were met by the Big Brass of Fort Sill, an honor guard and a military band, all of which gave us a pleasant feeling of importance.

There followed the presentation to the home boys of three of southern Mississippi's most important products: a large box of iced sea food from Biloxi, several crates of peaches from Hattiesburg and 10 copies of the Chronicle-Advertiser.

In addition to members of Battery B, there are four Pascagoula and Moss Point men who are members of the 631st Medical Detachment.

These men left Jackson, county as members of Battery B, but are now part of a unit attached to battalion headquarters. They are Cpl. Ernest Wilson, Pascagoula;

Leopold H. Rohr, 87, Succumbs Saturday After Lengthy Illness

Leopold Henrich Rohr, 87, died Saturday at his residence, 1109 S. Pascagoula, after an illness of a year.

Of Bremerhaven, Germany, Mr. Rohr had resided in this country for 56 years. He was a retired wheelwright.

Mr. Rohr learned his trade in Nova Scotia. When he was 32 he came to Pascagoula where he made many timber dogs and crow bars during the days of the great lumbering industry. He was also an expert carriage maker although his shop has been closed for many years.

He was a member of the Lutheran church.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Edith C. Rohr; three sons, Carl A. and George H. Pascagoula and William M. Hattiesburg; two daughters, Mary Evelyn, Pascagoula, and Mrs. N. V. Flurry, Perkinston, and five grand children.

Funeral services were held Sunday from Falls with the Rev. Arthur Schneider officiating. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Pallbearers were O. E. Ward, H. J. Bogdahn, Naldo Saucier, Max Powell, E. F. Peetz and W. D. Holloway.

Three County Talks Are Set By Lumpkin

Sam Lumpkin, candidate for governor, will bring his campaign to Jackson county Saturday with guided at 4 p. m. by the First Presbyterian church in Birmingham.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Ellen Gregg Ingalls; one son, B. I. Jr.; two grand children, Elizabeth Ridgley and Barbara Gregg Ingalls; two sisters, Mrs. Grace I. Swan, Tom's River, N. J. and Mrs. Blanche I. Curl, Oakland, Calif., and one brother, Charles Bristol, Russell's Point, Okla.

Pallbearers will be W. R. Guest, M. F. Pixton, D. W. Strickland, Monroe B. Lanier, R. C. Palmer, K. H. Gayle, Jr., and Ross Anderson, all officials of the Ingalls company or its affiliates.

Was Native Of Ohio

Ingalls was born in Huntsville, O., and attended Ohio Northern University.

As a young man of 28, he bought a small fabricating plant in Birmingham in 1910 and made it into the Ingalls Iron Works Co., one of the nation's largest such concerns.

Ingalls Shipbuilding also operates an inland shipyard at Decatur, Ala., on the Tennessee River.

Birmingham Tank Co., another subsidiary, manufactures steel fabricated tanks. Another subsidiary is the Steel Construction Co., which handles major construction jobs on steel fabricated at the Ingalls plants.

Donated Large Sums

The Ingalls Foundation, incorporated in 1943, was given large sums by Ingalls to be used in charitable, scientific and educational purposes. It established the Barbara Gregg Ingalls Orthopedic Clinic at Jefferson-Hillman Hospital, in Birmingham, named for Ingalls' granddaughter.

It also contributed heavily to the Ingalls Laboratory at the Southern Research Institute, Birmingham.

He was as familiar with the actual workings of his plants here as any man in them. Frequently, visitors would find him "back in the plant" watching some new machine operate, or showing the workmen how it should be done.

Ingalls had been in poor health for several years but had remained as the active head of the Ingalls Enterprises. He recently suffered several heart attacks.

White And Arrington Set Speaking Dates At Hurley Church

Hugh White, candidate for governor, and Jimmy Arrington, lieutenant governor aspirant, are expected to speak Wednesday at an all-day political rally at Hurley Methodist church.

White is scheduled to speak at 2 p. m., Arrington at 7 p. m.

James E. Lockard Taken By Death At Home Of Son

James Edward Lockard, 87-year-old resident of Vancleave for the past 50 years, died at the home of his son, Jacob, in Vancleave Monday. He had been an invalid for months.

Native Of Alabama

Mr. Lockard was born in Sumter County, Ala., Dec. 2, 1862. In 1893 he and Miss Kate Thompson were married and moved to Meridian, subsequently moving to Vancleave in 1901 where he was associated with Dantaler Lumber Company.

Later he operated his own mercantile business and a turpentine industry. A Presbyterian, he attended the Methodist church during his half century in Vancleave where there is no Presbyterian church. He was a member of the building committee for the present Vancleave church.

He was a charter member of the Vancleave Library Association, a school trustee for many years and was proud to say he had a part in the first Vancleave Consolidated school, having donated about half the lumber for the building.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon from Vancleave Methodist church with the Rev. Clyde Gunn, Gulfport, a former Vancleave pastor, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Arthur M. Schneider, Presbyterian minister at Pascagoula, and the Rev. Delwin Thigpen, local pastor.

Pallbearers were Rupert Roberts, Cliff Flurry, Vertis Ramsay, Clyde Cunningham, Roscoe Fletcher and Austin Delancey. Interment was in Vancleave cemetery.

Widow, Sons Survive
He is survived by his widow, three sons, James N. Lockard, Pascagoula, William Edward Lockard, Montgomery, Ala., and Jacob Lockard, Vancleave; two daughters, Miss Lulle May Lockard, Ocean Springs, and Mrs. Annie Kate Lord, Mobile.

Four brothers, George T., T. C., and M. M. of Meridian and W. W. Lockard, Indiana; and four sisters, Mrs. Nannie Galbraith, Mineral Wells, Tex., Mrs. C. T. Ames, Jackson, Mrs. R. C. King, Greenwood, and Miss Edna Lockard, Meridian.

Lawmakers near end of 90-day session

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A subcommittee of the Senate Elections Committee is scheduled to consider legislative reapportionment this week as lawmakers work toward the end of their 90-day session.

With only about three weeks left, lawmakers still must deal with open meetings and ethics legislation and must approve a state budget for the coming fiscal year.

Legislative fiscal leaders are warning that the state must cut its spending or Mississippians may face tax boosts next year.

Rep. Kenneth Williams of Clarksdale, acting chairman of the Senate Reapportionment Committee, said over the weekend, "Even if we have a technically balanced budget, I'm afraid we will have a tax increase next year."

"We will be spending more than we collect and financing the difference from our savings account, what people call the surplus," he said. "But we'll be using the last $40 million of this and next year we'll have to get this amount from tax sources unless there is a big upswing in the economy that no one expects now."

On the reapportionment issue, Sen. Martin Smith of Poplarville said that a subcommittee of his Senate Elections Committee would take up the matter this week.

The House Friday approved a bill that would reapportion the state's three most populous House districts, Hinds County, Harrison County and the combined Jackson-George counties district. While the House delayed release of the bill, it was expected to come to senators early this week.

The Senate is considering its own bill, one which would reapportion the Hinds County district.

Discussion of reapportionment began after civil rights forces began to lobby strongly for alteration of the present system. A three-judge federal panel is considering a suit which asks the court to throw out present apportionment and require single member districts throughout the state.

The civil rights attorneys have argued that multi-member districts, where several representatives in one district are elected through at-large voting, makes it difficult for blacks to be elected.

In backing the House bill, Rep. Stone Barefield of Hattiesburg said that it might head off court action on the reapportionment question.

The Senate's bill, as introduced would require all five Hinds County senators to live in separate county supervisors' districts, but all five would be elected by all county voters.

Ingalls dies at 65 in 'Bama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Robert I. Ingalls Jr., former chairman of the board of Ingalls Companies, died Sunday. He was 65.

At one time, he was chairman of the board of the huge firm that included Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp., Ingalls Iron Works, Ingalls Steel Construction and Birmingham Tank Co.

In 1961, shortly before Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp. of Pascagoula, Miss., was sold to Litton Industries of California, he retired.

Ingalls became chairman of the board in 1952 after his father died. After he was appointed to the position, nearly two dozen lawsuits were filed in a lengthy dispute over the industrial empire.

He is survived by his widow and two daughters. Funeral arrangements were not immediately announced.

Point woman suffers gunshot wound in stomach

A Moss Point woman is listed in fair condition today in Singing River Hospital where she is being treated for a gunshot wound suffered about 1:55 a.m. Saturday.

She is Ms. Diane Shoemaker, 23, 1939 Nancy St., who, according to police, was shot in the abdomen with a .22-caliber pistol.

John Martin told Patrolman R. D. Doggett the shooting occurred in Carver Village. Martin told the officer the gun discharged as he was handing it to Ms. Shoemaker, his girl friend.

No charges had been filed against Martin.

House damaged by morning fire

An investigation is under way by the Pascagoula Fire Department to determine the cause of a fire that extensively damaged a vacant house early today.

Owner of the house at 4685 Dunham St. was unknown at press time. Firemen estimated

Baptist women hold convention

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The annual Mississippi Baptist Women's Missionary Union Convention will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at Jackson. Sponsors said up to 1,200 women from the state will attend the convention.

Robber hits the Dutch Inn

About $325 was reported taken from the Dutch Inn late Saturday night by a masked man who held up the desk clerk, Dicky Overby, and his wife.

The Overbys told Patrolman Tom Miletich the man was armed with a .45-caliber pistol and a double barrel shotgun. They said he was wearing a white mask and gloves.

Witnesses said the man fled on foot toward Old Mobile Avenue.

Officers named

New officers of Eastlawn Elementary School Parent Teacher Organization are Mrs. Margaret Lowell, president; Mrs. Patsy Clapper, vice president; Mrs. Jean Ware, secretary, and Mrs. Jeanne Smith, treasurer. (An earlier article incorrectly listed some of them as outgoing officers.)
